Translation is the communication of the meaning of a source-language text by means of an equivalent target-language text. The English language draws a terminological distinction (not all languages do) between translating (a written text) and interpreting (oral or sign-language communication between users of different languages); under this distinction, translation can begin only after the ...

A Note on Terminology – Advocates of free translation have invented several terms to refer to their approach. The term dynamic equivalence was coined by Eugene Nida in an attempt to avoid the negative connotations of the word paraphrase. Later, Nida used the term functional equivalence to avoid the negative connotations which quickly became attached to dynamic equivalence.
